Antarctic Expedition (AAE) is leaving Christchurch, New Zealand for Antarctica, according to reports. The US$18.4 million expedition, which is slated to last between nine and 12 months, includes a three-person crew that's just months away from an upcoming dive in Antarctica, according to the New Zealand Herald. The expedition is co-led by Sir Peter Gluckman, a celebrated New Zealand Antarctic historian and former top New Zealand scientist who recently has been recognized with the Sir Peter Leitch Medal. The AAE expedition's first major activity will be an underwater dive near the sea floor on the Antarctic Plateau, one of the largest plateaus in the world. This dive is scheduled for June 2, the day before the ship departs from Antarctica.
